STATEMENT

The Artist says: I'm an artist.

I'm an artist because I give it all.

I'm a professional artist because my income is sustained by my projects.

"I am an artist because that's what I do best"

I always respond differently, depends on who is asking.

My work is made for the one and for all. I aim to approximate the gap between you and me, between invention and intervention, between difficulties and playfulness. Always digging for subversive ground and willing to keep on learning. More radical than I look like. Smile.

Ask a lot. Listen.

I work with cinematic and performative elements, interviews, online calls, collages, talks, stop motion, audio and video.

It depends on the project, the content and what in my means transports itself better to YOU.

EL FER i el no fer
2015

EL FER i no fer is a research project in documentary technique style. A puzzle of reflections on the phenomenon of time, labor and a society addicted to production. The framework of the project consists in a website with 5 chapters of a polyphonic audio collage, a printed score transcription in a limited edition, a fetish 3D object and a blog that documents a performative activity, the “do nothing with others”

EL FER: 5 work spaces and 5 polifonic audiocollages made of interviews with people related to the art works tell us about their work experience, the professional world and anything what means for them the so called activity WORK.

el no fer: A white room, a carpet, some plants and a sofa. A one to one experience of doing nothing together with the artist. What does it mean to you and what can we not do?

"Say hi to Tom!"
2014

THE PROJECT "SAY Hi To TOM"

is a parodic response to all the countries that are about to turn into "Souvenirlandia" invading public space with a multicultural population on vacation.

A crowdsourced action, an invitation to participate in a call for postcards.

A game to re-vindicate written communication, a joke on massive tourism and a turnaround of distributing artistic work.

A website with an open call was published and during 2 months, 36 postcards were received and turned into personalized collages.

One of the collages was projected in huge format on an open wall in Barcelona, one was printed in a limited edition, signed and sent to

ALL participants of the action and the final series was auctioned at an Auction house in Barcelona.

You your Wall and Me
2013

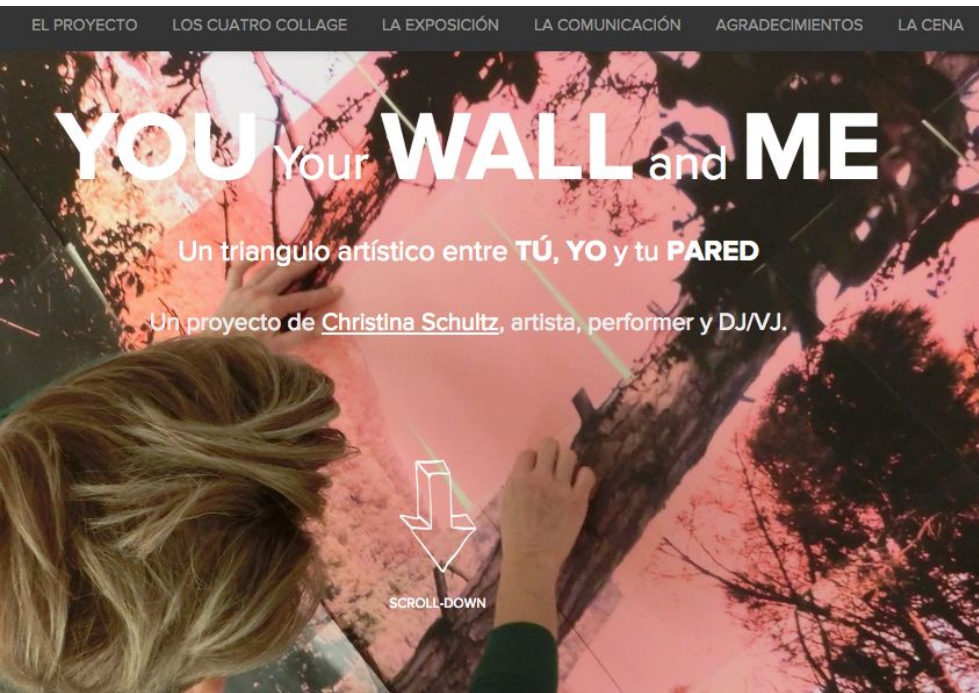

4 site specific collage pieces have influenced transcendently the vital moments of 4 participants of this project. Be part of my art.

Through a website "You your Wall and Me" asked for a wall of any size, to elaborate personalized collages .

Through private interviews and ancestral architectural methodology "Feng Shui" the emerging energies were interpreted and depicted to support the personal growth of each person.

The final exhibition was realized through a bicycle tour, a blog, the web site and and an mobile application.

do nothing two 2012

Do nothing understood not as a meditative state, nor a freeze-frame but an activity or not activity without a purpose. Nor to produce nor to relax. Just let it do.

Do nothing II was a daily training during a month on what occurs if you do nothing.

Simultaneously with Clara Gari, an art curator, we did nothing during the established time range between 15h to 16h.

Each daily experience was then afterward registered in a blog.

Oma Oma Oma

Oma means grandmother in german.

This portrait was my way to say goodbye to my grandmother who died at the age of 97 in an elderly residency.

During her last months of her life, we did numerous interviews, photos, video and super8 films.

The result is an absurd and historic documentation of her past and actual living situation, a review of points of view on big human life issues, a funny but sad collage movie mix.
