

PORTFOLIO

Christina Schultz

artist, performer and linguistic nomad

Oracles, 2023

Drawing, Installation, Performance

MACBA, Barcelona

Oracles, 2023

A performative installation developed at MACBA, structured around three "oracles" addressing drug use, gender transition, and BDSM practices.

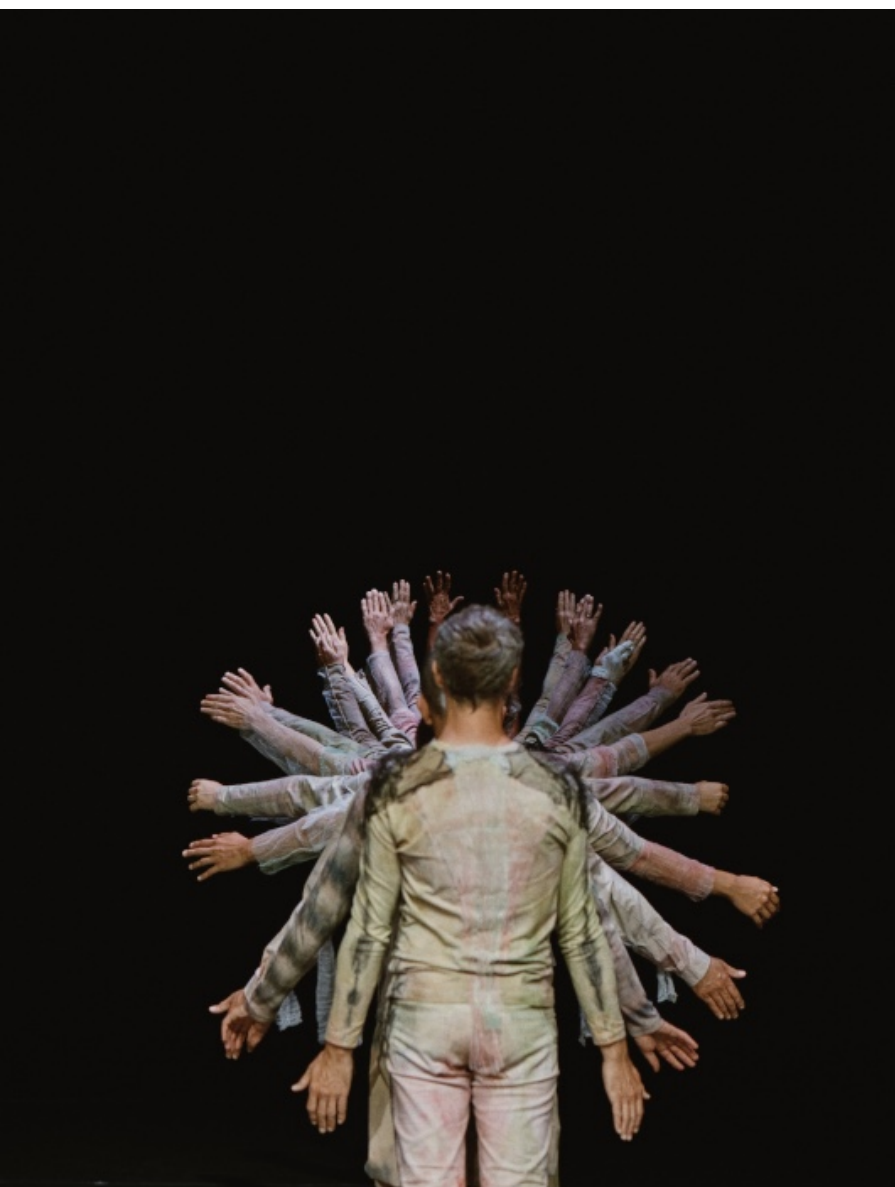

Through performative readings, visitors engage with drawings and objects to formulate questions and receive responses.

Developed in dialogue with Metzineres, the work translates situated experiences into a system of gestures, materials, and spoken interaction.

Body of Resonances, 2019

Performance, drawing
GRANER, Barcelona

Body of Resonances, 2019

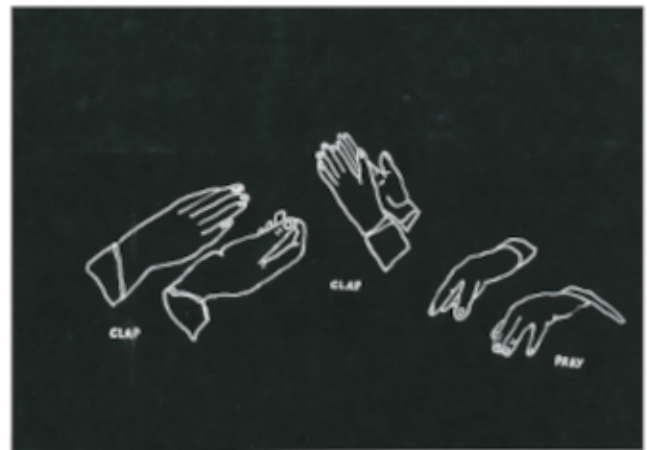

A performative work developed through collective vocal and physical exercises, exploring how the body can function as a site of resonance. Through repetition, lifting, and coordinated actions, the piece investigates how sound, breath, and movement circulate between bodies.

The work extends into drawings that translate these interactions into minimal forms, tracing moments of contact, support, and release.

The Weight of My Neighbors, 2017-2020

Performance, drawing, voice, collective practice
Barcelona (La Capella)/Melilla

The weight of my neighbours, 2017-2020

A research-based project developed between Barcelona and Melilla, focusing on the narratives of Moroccan women in contexts of migration and marginality.

Through collective practices of singing, storytelling, and daily activities, the work translates shared experiences into performances, drawings, songs, and recipe-poems.

Rambla 14, 2022

part of the research project Making Holes (Fer Forats)

Performance, writing, installation, voice

Arts Santa Mònica, Barcelona

Rambla 14, 2022

A site-specific, itinerant performance unfolding as a journey through time—from 1973 to a near future—within an empty apartment building on Barcelona's Rambla.

Developed through a collective writing process as part of Making Holes (Fer Forats), the project explores transversal writing as a relational and spatial practice, addressing gentrification and displacement through situated narratives.

Aixopluc, 2025

part of the research project Walls of Breath, from inside out

Drawing, installation, performance, voice

Villa Waldberta, Munich

Aixopluc, 2025

Developed within the research project Walls of Breath: from inside out, Aixopluc explores shelter as a porous and unstable condition.

Translucent textile surfaces carry drawn and stitched figures, extending drawing into space as a suspended, permeable structure. Activated through voice and movement, the work becomes a site of inhabitation where the body negotiates proximity, exposure, and withdrawal.